

The Missing Sarah Palin eMails

From: msteele@rnc.org
Sent: Monday, August 25, 2008 9:26AM
To: govssarah@yahoo.com
Subject: Your pivotal role in the 2008 presidential election

Governor Palin:

I'm happy to inform you that we at the Republican National Committee are very seriously considering you as a potential running mate for Senator John McCain in the fall election. We'd like to schedule a conference call at your earliest convenience to discuss the vetting process. Please contact my office at the number below.

[REDACTED]

Michael Steele
Chair, Republican National Committee

-----
From: govssarah@yahoo.com
Sent: Monday, August 25, 2008 11:02AM
To: msteele@rnc.org
Subject: Re: Your pivotal role in the 2008 presidential election

Todd, is that you?

SP

-----
From: msteele@rnc.org
Sent: Monday, August 25, 2008 2:26PM
To: govssarah@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: Re: Your pivotal role in the 2008 presidential election
Attachments: rnc_vp_approval_checklist.doc

No Governor, this is Michael Steele, chair of the Republican National Committee. And we are absolutely serious about having you join the ticket, once we can complete a thorough vetting of your background and associations. Please forward the following documents (see attached) ASAP.

MS

-----
From: govssarah@yahoo.com
Sent: Monday, August 25, 2008 4:14PM
To: msteele@rnc.org
Subject: Re: Re: Re: Your pivotal role in the 2008 presidential election
Attachments: myresum.doc, Palin-accomplishments.doc, WasillaHottie.jpg

Sorry, Mike. For a minute there I thought you were one of those Niagra 911 scams. I can't tell you how many times Todd and I have fallen for those.

You know, I've been a fan of Jerry McCains ever since I was a young girl growing up in Wasilla and dreaming the American dream about life, liberty, and the pursuit of communism. I was really sorry when his talk show got canceled.

Here's a resume and a one-page double-spaced sheet listing all of my accomplishments as governor of the great state of Alaska during my first 19 months in office. I've also attached a recent photo of me holding an AK-47 and wearing a tight black skirt and a wonder bra. That ought to raise voter awareness in those Iowa primaries, if you know what I mean.

SarahGov

-----
From: msteele@rnc.org
Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2008 10:07AM
To: govssarah@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: Re: Re: Re: Your pivotal role in the 2008 presidential election

Governor:

Thank you for submitting the requested documentation, as well the photo; they are being vetted at this moment.

As you are no doubt aware, the Iowa primary was held last January. We are talking about the national election in November, which is now less than 100 days away.

The senator's first name is John, not Jerry. J...o...h...n. We believe you might be confusing him with Jerry Springer, who ran for governor of Ohio as a Democrat in 1982. Just to be clear, Candidate McCain is the senior senator from the great state of Arizona.

When you meet with the candidate, which we hope will happen over the next few days, we'd appreciate it if you could refrain from mentioning the Iowa primary, where the Senator placed fourth. Senator McCain is very sensitive about this.

Warmest regards,

Michael

PS: We are somewhat baffled by your statement about communism, and are hoping you can clarify this in our next correspondence.

- - - - -

From: govssarah@yahoo.com
Sent: Tuesday, August 26, 2008 3:23PM
To: msteele@rnc.org
Subject: Re: Re: Re: Re: Re: Your pivotal role in the 2008 presidential election

Dear Mark:

Sorry, for the delay in responding. Todd and I had some 'business' to attend to. As we say around Wasilla, if my Todd doesn't get some at least three times a day, the moose start to get nervous.

Of course I know it's Johnny McCain from Arizona. You can't place third in the Miss Alaska contest and not know that. There's a multiple choice test.

By "pursuit of communism" of course I meant pursuing communism in order to catch it, kill it, and hang it in the smokehouse while the blood drains. That's just another one of those gotcha questions the lamestream liberal media keeps using as an excuse to try and take our guns away.

Todd and I are both looking forward to meeting Sen. Cane and his lovely wife Candy.

SarahGov

-----
From: msteele@rnc.org
Sent: Wednesday, August 27, 2008 8:19AM
To: govssarah@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: Re: Re: Re: Re: Re: Your pivotal role in the 2008 presidential election

Dear Governor Palin:

It is my pleasure to inform you that, unlikely as it may seem, Senator McCain has chosen you to be his running mate. He was particularly impressed by your photo, and found it difficult to talk about anything else.

Best of luck, and may God have mercy on our souls.

Michael

-----
From: govssarah@yahoo.com
Sent: Wednesday, August 27, 2008 9:23AM
To: msteele@rnc.org
Subject: Re: Re: Re: Re: Re: Re: Your pivotal role in the 2008 presidential election

You Betcha!

Like our nation's great fourfather George Washington Carver once said, "Darn those torpedoes, let's get this show on the road!"

xoxoxo,

Sarah

